Guest speakers

Based on some of the earlier sessions you might consider asking in specific guest speakers to address the group.

How?

Interests of young people can vary from place to place and from age to age and so it can be a mistake to have a set plan of asking speakers before getting to know the group.

Some young people are keen on learning more about refugees and asylum seekers and so inviting someone from Asylum Link might be a good idea.

However, other young people might find themselves drawn to wanting to learn more about different forms of prayer and devotions and so an invitation to someone who could lead some input on different prayer types would be appropriate to that group.
